Project: Fire Compartmentation & Refurbishment
Location: RAF Wittering, Nr Peterborough, Cambs
Architect: Templeman Architects

RAF Wittering is home to the A4 expeditionary logistics hub. Located in Cambridgeshire, RAF Wittering is also host to a variety of other important units and maintains an active airfield in support of Joint Force Harrier. When the MOD had to bring up the 1930's buildings to current building standards Defence Estates and BabcockDyncorp turned to Integral Interiors to deliver the project.

The project involved installing oak glazed screens to provide protected stairways, along with new doors and screens to each of the long corridors. Externally all fire escapes were upgraded to consist of outward opening doors and new metal staircases from first floor. The fire alarm system was completely replaced on a zoned basis.

Logistically the project was very challenging as no areas could be taken out of action due to the number of service personnel using the buildings, therefore a detailed phasing programme was put in place ensuring the correct number of rooms were available at any point in the programme. Due to the particular "live" environment issues at such an establishment the programme had to change several times at a moments notice to allow for them.
