JOB DATA SHEET

Client: Western Power Distribution
Project: Reception refurbishment
Location: Feeder Road, Bristol
Designer: Mr S W Kohn

Western Power Distribution is the electricity distribution company for South West England and South and West Wales. They deliver electricity to 2.5 million customers over a 26,000 sq kms area.

The project involved liaising with the users, drawing up a provisional proposal and presenting it to committee and obtaining approval for final design. This was a challenging project as this is an important and busy HQ building. The reception desk is at its working hub and had to be both contemporary in design and meet exacting functional requirements. Disruption had to be kept to a minimum so the works were carried out out of hours ensuring there was no interruption to the smooth running of the reception area.

Allowances had to be made in the design to ensure compatibility with the security systems which operated from the desk, data and telecoms & other office equipment.

The image and look of their main reception is extremely important to WPD. The original desk was beginning to look a little "tired" and had become incompatible with the latest equipment being used in the desk by the receptionist. WPD commissioned Simon Kohn to come up with a more contemporary solution to their reception desk that was more "fit for purpose."
